Conference and Training Updates

We are excited to be hosting the Mike Joyner Public Works Education Program “Certificate of Public Works Management” classes on August 10-13 and 17-18.

If you plan to join us, please read the following expectations of participants registering for virtual classes.

While it is disappointing that we are unable to meet in person, we are excited to be able to offer the Certificate of Public Works program online. We will do everything we can to create an effective learning environment for you.

In order to have the best learning experience possible, we have several expectations of participants. Before registering for a course module, please take the time to make sure you can meet these expectations.

- We will be utilizing Zoom to deliver the course modules. For the best experience, you will need access to speakers and a microphone. Most laptops have those built in, so that should be an option for many of you. When you download Zoom and log in for the first time, the software should walk you through audio and video setup. The week prior to the first sessions we will host a drop-in Open House Tech Check if you would like to become familiar with the platform.
- Once you have registered for your classes, you will receive an e-mail in the following days with a link to register for your particular Zoom sessions. It is important that you register for each of those sessions so you can receive the links to join on the days they are delivered.
- Classes will begin at 8:30 each morning and end at 4:00 p.m. There will be a morning and afternoon break and an extended lunch break to allow for time away from your computer screen.
- Please note you are required to attend all sessions in full to receive credit for a module. If for some reason you only need one class day to complete a module, you will need to contact Walt McBride at mcbride@uga.edu to discuss your situation.
- In order to accommodate as many people as possible, you will only be allowed to register for one module.
